

THE FAVORITE FISH.

FACTS ABOUT THE CULTURE OF
GERMAN CARP.

The United States Fish Commission Ready to Give Georgia Her Quota—Commissioner Henderson's Views—Some Remarkable Fish—How to Make the Spawn Grow.

"You will please publish," said Commissioner Henderson yesterday "that I have been notified by Professor Baird, the head of the fish commission in Washington, that he is now ready to furnish Georgia her supply of carp."

"Will you have enough to go around?"

"I think so. We carried over from last season four hundred and eighty applications. We have had about 100 applications added since. I'm satisfied that we can furnish enough carp to fill these orders. Those who apply hereafter will be supplied next year unless we should have a surplus beyond our present demand, in which case I will distribute the first orders that come."

"Will the fish be distributed from this point?"

"I think so. I don't think the government can afford to send men with separate orders and Georgia's quota will probably be sent here and distributed throughout the state."

"Has the success of the carp been unequivoal?"

"Not at all expectation. There is only one difficulty with any of the ponds, and that is that the spawn does not hatch. This is the case in only a few localities."

the pond, and not of the fish. It is necessary, above all things, that the carp should have shallow water on which the sun shines to keep the water warm, so that the chill in the water will destroy the eggs. They are best known to spawn and the spawn to hatch in the open water from the boiler of an engine which was of a milk warm heat. Having the water warm, the bottom should be well covered with plants and roots. This is essential to successful spawning, as the fish spawn in the roots. The ammonia in the roots is necessary to their health.

CROPPING THE POND.

In Germany, where the raising of carp is a business, the ponds are alternated with crops of rye or wheat every two or three years. The pond is drawn off and wheat is sown into the rich bottom. After a crop or two is gathered the water is poured back, the carp replaced on the bottom, and the most profitable matter, the alternate pond planted in a grain crop. If these two essentials are regarded, there is no reason why every man who tries the experiment should not have more carp in his pond than he can consume. The reason in the matter is so strong that I am going to establish very extensive ponds this year myself.

It is held by Mr. Hayward, of this city, who has the most successful carp pond in this section, and who has studied their habits very carefully, that the carp spawn every month in the year, just as pigeons lay eggs every month. Whether his theory is correct or not we do not know.

ABOUT BIG FISH.

Special to The Constitution.

GRIFFIN, October 28.—Much has been said of late touching upon the subject of German carp culture, more especially the enormous size to which they are reputed to attain in so short a time, and as the pioneer "carpist," Abel A. Wright resides in Griffin and has been about the most successful culturist in this particular line I have concluded that perhaps another carp story wouldn't hurt but possibly prove of interest to the many in our own state and elsewhere who are making extra efforts with this species of the finny tribe. I visited Mr. Wright's nursery an evening or two since for the ostensible purpose of finding out, if possible, the exact size and weight of his oldest carp, and all the other information I could gain that had not been written

Upon my arrival I found him busily engaged, as usual, in catching (at least trying to catch) some two or three hundred of the youngsters suitable for shipment and stocking a pond. "Watch out there; you'll slip in before you know it, and that water is about six or eight feet deep, too, and there are fish in this pond big enough to swim off with a man of your size before old "Boston" could get to you." ("Boston" is my Newfoundland dog, and, bear in mind, weighs to the rise of over one hundred pounds himself.) Not wishing to be made a "Jonah" of, I walked

"All right," responded Mr. W., "just wait a minute until I fill up this barrel and I'll show you around with pleasure and tell you something of my success in connection with what else you want to know since my embarkation in this business." Having finished his work he went on to say: "I noticed in THE CONSTITUTION four days ago where there is a gentleman at White Plains where there is a gentleman at white tables, only succeeded in catching one, but about as near as I could guess I should think the other two about the same size as the one I caught, weighing only a fraction less than twelve pounds. "Well, what did you do with him?" I inquired." "I concluded I would test his strength and did so by hanging him rest his quality, and did so by having him served up in the shape of a bake, and I tell you now," he continued, "I never tasted a better fish in my life, and three or four of my neighbors and friends outside will testify to the same thing as a fact. Indeed, the carp, properly served, is not the course fish thought by many to be, and is as savory as any I would want to eat. For a bake, they are, in my opinion, superior to the shad and as a pan fish, if served when they will weigh about one half to one pound, they are equal to the best, and when caught and immediately cooked, they are simply delicious.

and, by the way, that is the proper way to eat fish, for the longer they are out of the frying pan the more 'fishy' they taste, and they lose that delicacy of flavor which would prove most palatable to the average epicurean taste." "Indeed, Mr. Wright, you are interesting; go on." "Well, it's a fact, and whatever I tell you about carp may be relied upon as true." "Are you certain you have any fish heavier than the last you caught?" "Why, sir, I'm just as sure there are fish in my pond that will weigh fifteen pounds as I am that I am talking to you now. How much larger than that I cannot

Ga., who has a carp pond and in running it off caught some six or seven, weighing upon an average seven pounds each. Well, that's pretty good but I can beat him. I know about nine months ago I caught one in this pond, that weighed twenty-eight and one

"I only kept him out long enough to weigh him, and then, with the aid of the negro man I keep employed, succeeded in "launching" him and setting him afloat once more.

"Have you caught any since large enough to keep him company?" I asked.

"Yes, about three months ago I ran upon three monsters in very shallow water, and I cornered them, run 'em aground, but being unable to handle all three at one time,

ARRESTERED IN ALBANY FOR MURDER

Simultaneous Revolver Used—Break Bone Fear—Fort Valley's Artisan Well—The Contested Fence Election—Dahlgren's Court—In Good Condition, Etc.

Special to the Constitution.
ALBANY, October 30.—A man from about halfway station, by the name of Buntz, with the aid of a pint or so of whisky and a revolver, made himself unpleasantly conspicuous for a short while among the large crowd assembled on the circus ground last Saturday morning. The ball took effect in the thigh of a colored woman, named Mattie Walker, where it lodged, inflicting a severe and painful flesh wound. He was at once arrested and brought before the mayor who promptly fined him.

I neglected to state in my notice of the cotton seed oil mill, soon to commence operations here, of which Mr. Geo. M. Dudley, of Montgomery, is at the helm, that the estimated consumption of the mill will be twenty tons daily—yielding twenty or more barrels of oil. The statement heretofore made that the meal made from the expressed seed is more valuable as a fertilizer than the seed, has been confirmed by tests made this year by Mr. B. F. Wilder, a very intelligent and practical farmer of Dougherty county, who experimented with both on his oats and corn, and who estimates the advantage of the meal at thirty per cent in favor of the meal.

Mr. J. M. Harrell, one of the principles in the Ben. Harrison county tragedy, accompanied by two of his friends on the occasion, Messrs. Harrell and Pope, came up by the Brunswick train on Friday night last to attend the circus. The trio were arrested after their arrival on warrants handed the sheriff of this county by Colonel W. A. Hawkins, who was retained for the prosecution by the state, and who came upon the same train with the party from Tifton. The warrants issued were peace warrants against all three, and one for murder likewise against Harrell. Under these warrants the parties were taken back on Saturday morning to Berrien.

Worth superior court adjourned on Friday last, to meet again in adjourned session in February next. His honor, Judge Wooten, is making a conscientious use of the small term of office allotted to him, in clearing away the accumulated rubbish of the over-crowded dockets in this circuit. The adjourned term of Dougherty court meets to-day, and will continue through the week.

Captain J. J. Barton has thoroughly overhauled and repaired the steamboat "Newton," which was built and equipped in Albany a year or two ago, for the navigation of the Flint between Albany and Bainbridge. The boat will soon make regular trips between Chattahoochee and Cheverton.

Whether all the money in the United States treasury can ever make the Flint navigable up to Albany is beginning to be questioned, although Captain P. M. Slaughter, who believes in still industriously tugging away at logs and snags as they are encountered. The Hon. H. M. McIntosh, member-elect from Dougherty county, will leave for Atlanta this morning. The Hon. W. T. Jones, Dougherty's candidate for the judgeship of this circuit, left yesterday morning for prominent citizens of Albany, will follow during the week.

The commissioners of Dougherty county have given notice by publication of a local act, to abolish precincts in the 2d and 3d districts of Dougherty county.

Quite a number of cases of what the doctors call digme, or break bone fever, are under treatment in Albany just now. The disease usually is not favorable to the sufferers. The cotton receipts in Albany up to Saturday night last amounted to 14,768 bales.

GEORGIA MASON'S.

Meeting of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in Macon.
The Constitution.
October 30.—The Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons for the State of Georgia, convened in the Masonic Temple this morning at ten o'clock, with the most honorable Grand Master J. I. Wright in the chair, with the following grand officers in their places: J. M. Rushing in the place of J. S. Davidson in the south, J. E. Blackbear at the secretary, J. A. Wells at the treasurer, J. W. Woodman, S. G. D., A. C. McIntosh, J. G. D. The lodge was opened in due form and the calling of the roll proceeded with. There are over three hundred delegates present with quite a number of visitors. This grand body is composed of the masters of lodges, past masters and grand officers. There are over three hundred subordinate lodges in the state, and, or nearly all, are represented. The program of the morning session was the delivery of the grand address. It is a lengthy document, full of wisdom and wise suggestions. Master Wright evidently has the good of his craft at heart as well as the interests of his brethren in unimpeachable manner. There are a number of past grand masters and deputy grand masters present. The sessions of the Grand Lodge will continue for several days, at least until all the business is disposed of. The hotels and boarding houses are all filled full and the streets present a lively appearance.

BURGLARY IN STONE MOUNTAIN.

A Safe Broken Into and Over a Thousand Dollars Stolen—Other Attempts.

Special to the Constitution.
STONE MOUNTAIN, October 31.—The safe burglars visited this place last night, and devastated the citizens of between $1,000 and $1,500 in cash. Some time during the night the safe of G. R. Wells was broken into and robbed of its contents, amounting to over one thousand dollars. The tools—a coil of wire, a screw hammer—with which the work was done, were found near the safe. Six twenty-dollar gold pieces, two checks, $455 in paper money and $50 in silver were taken. The safe was found from it the thieves took some stamps, while they robbed the store of cigars, six pistols and several pairs of boots. The work was not neatly done, but there are evidences that an expert had a hand in the operation. The same persons also attempted to open a safe in another store, but failed. There is no clue to the burglars, and the town is in great excitement.

DAHLGREN.

Superior Court Adjourned—Business in Better Condition than for Years.

Special to the Constitution.
DAHLGREN, October 28.—Ours superior court adjourned to night, after a full two weeks session, presided over by Judge Welbourn with general acceptability, and will likely be his own successor. About all the old cases in court that were ready for trial, and much of the new have been disposed of this term, leaving the business in court here in better condition than it has been for years. A great many cases, but many important ones, have been tried this term. J. C. Bell, whose case has been before the supreme court for a new trial and refused, was re-sentenced to ten years on the 8th day of December, next. H. and others voted the law of Dahlgren, and found three voters for and one for Mr. Speer. S. from Texas to-day, and

THE DRUMMER AND THE BRIDE.

Like Other True Tales This Story Has a Moral in It.

A gay young drummer, who travels for a house whose name we will not mention (it being sufficient to say that they are well known in Rome and are not more than a thousand miles away) went to prayer meeting the other night at one of the churches. Before he went he was a quiet, sensible and merry fellow, generous and sociable to a fault, and very fond of lively company; but now all this is changed. It is morose, gloomy and exceedingly disagreeable, shunning the company and walking alone into lonely places with bent head and despairing tread. What could have done all this in so short a time? Could it be that he was the victim of some frightful and insidious disease that hitherto had been unknown and invisible. This was the anxious thought and fear of his many friends.

Our industrious news gatherer, on hearing of his case immediately began to investigate inferences in regard to the facts, and gleaned the following: While at church he sat directly behind a young lady, as he described it—the very loveliest, sweetest specimen of a girl that I ever saw, tho' I could only see the side of her face I knew this. He sat perfectly entranced—in a sublime state of ecstasy—all through the service, and went back to the hotel to sleep and dream of the bewitching face he had seen in his waking hours.

Next morning on enquiring who she was, in a quiet way, of course, he learned to his dismay that she was a married woman, a widow of a few weeks. Hence his mysterious actions. This, like other true tales, has a moral: Never fall in love until you know she's not married.

The Jackson Matrimonial Market.

From the Jackson, Ga., News.

It's time the matrimonial market was opening up. We don't even hear of any bids. There are our young friends Joe Pitman and Johnnie Settles, two of the best looking, thoughtful farmers, who would be a catch for any girl; and there is the inevitable Messrs. Woodwards, Barkleys, John Carmichael, and a host of others we might mention, all good looking and fine material, who would make it a sufficient guarantee of its being all that is claimed, for they are men who do not care to be reduced to anything else but a reliable medicine for public use.

"Grandpa's Dead."

From the Albany, Ga., News.

Who that attended the funeral of Mr. Edward Richardson on Thursday afternoon could have been untouched by the grief of his four little grandchildren—two little boys and two sweet little girls—the offspring of his only children, Mrs. Albert Jackson and Mrs. George Greenwood? What heart could have been so cold as to have resisted the softening influence of genuine sympathy for these weeping little ones; what eye could have kept back the responsive tear of a quickened heart as the funeral dirge came forth with its solemn cry once broken only by the sobs of these little mourners. Grandpa's dead! Ah, what a volume of meaning, what a load of grief these words express when uttered behind the irrepressible heart of a child who has lost its grandpa. Grandpa's dead! Ah, yes; that kind, generous, doting grandpa, is now cold in death, and has been laid away forever, and the deep impress that this dispensation of Divine Providence has made upon the young hearts will go with them through life and down to the grave.

Senatorial Notes.

The friends of Governor Colquitt are boosting him for the senate on the old cry of "persecution," but they say never a word as to his fitness for the place. It has come to pass now in Georgia that when a man or a woman opposes Governor Colquitt they are accused of attacking and ridiculing religion! Was there ever such nonsense? We fail to see anything in him specially fitting as the successor of Ben. Harrison.

Stranger Than Fiction.

From the Rome, Ga., Bulletin.
On Friday night several gentlemen emerged from a bar room, and as they proceeded up the street they met a man who confronted one of the party, and applying an opprobrious epithet to him dealt him a blow with his fist which was returned with interest. During the scuffle language was used which threw light on the difficulty, showing that it was an old feud. The parties were soon separated and investigation found that it was a case of "broken hearts" on both sides. The parties concerned were more surprised at the development than the witnesses of the fight, and all adjourned to a bar and enjoyed the remarkable incident. Truth is stranger than fiction.

Where a Pen Knife Was Found.

From the Dahlsgren, Ga., Mountain Signal.
We have in our office a pen knife that was lost eighteen months ago by Mrs. A. McDonald. On last Wednesday morning Mr. Wm. Woody purchased a cow for beef that at the time the knife was lost belonged to the said McDonald. After killing her he found in her paunch the identical knife, blade open, together with two nails.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

DR. JOHN F. HANCOCK, late President of the National Pharmaceutical Association of the United States, says:

"Brown's Iron Bitters has a heavy sale, is conceded to be a fine tonic; the character of the many features is a voucher for its purity and medicinal excellence."

NOTED MEN!

DR. JOSEPH ROBERTS, President Baltimore Pharmaceutical College, says:

"I endorse it as a fine medicine, reliable as a strengthening tonic, free from alcoholic poisons."

DR. J. FARIS MOORE, PH. D., Professor of Pharmacy, Baltimore Pharmaceutical College, says:

"Brown's Iron Bitters is a safe and reliable medicine, positively free from alcoholic poisons, and can be recommended as a tonic for use among those who oppose alcohol."

DR. EDWARD ECKERSON, Secretary Baltimore College of Pharmacy, says:

"I endorse it as an excellent medicine, a good digestive agent, and a non-intoxicant in the fullest sense."

DR. RICHARD SAMPSON, one of Baltimore's oldest and most reliable physicians, says:

"All who have used it praise its standard virtues, and the well-known character of the house which makes it is a sufficient guarantee of its being all that is claimed, for they are men who do not care to be reduced to anything else but a reliable medicine for public use."

A Druggist Cured.

Bonham, Md., Oct. 12, 1880. Gentlemen: Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of a bad attack of indigestion and fullness in the stomach. Having tested it, I take pleasure in recommending it to my customers, and am glad to say it gives entire satisfaction to all.

GENEVA, CHAM, August 29, 1882.

Gents—I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude to you for the cure your Swift's Specific has effected in my case. I was afflicted with the horrible blood disease for three years, and after spending some time at the Hot Springs, considered my case a hopeless one.

I used only one dozen small bottles of S. S. and there is not a sign of the disease remaining. My sores are all healed, my blood is entirely well, and I am rid of the terrible monster.

Being a drug clerk, I have seen so many hundreds of men dosed with calomel, iodine of mercury and iodine of potash, until they were made comical wrecks, that I shudder to think of the misery which has been brought on the human family by the use of mercurials for blood disease. It is a crying shame that physicians will not acknowledge the merit of your GRAND BLOOD MEDICINE. Use my name as you wish. I refer you to my present employers, or to Messrs. Collins Bros. St. Louis.

DR. CLARK JOHNSON—I have given your INDIAN BLOOD SYRUP a fair trial, and can recommend it to all afflicted as a valuable medicine.
and a remedy of no small value.

Dougherty county for several years past, and has administered the law with ability, firmness and uniform justice. That he is well qualified to fill the responsible position to which he is now called, and to which his friends desire to see him elevated, goes without question. Although yet comparatively a young man, he has long since won his way to the front rank of the bar of southwest Georgia, and his unswerving integrity, natural mental ability and well-known legal attainments have established him in the confidence of the people.

Judge Jones will be supported by a large number of the representatives of the legislature from this portion of the State, and if he should be elected the entire will fall upon worthy shoulders, and the law will be administered with ability, firmness and equal justice to all.

From the South Georgia Clarion.
Judge W. T. Jones has been endorsed for the judgeship of the Albany judicial circuit by the bar of the circuit, the members of the house and senators of the Georgia legislature, and by the people of that county for the judgeship of the Albany circuit.

We need not to little pleasure that some of our exchanges have brought recently to our notice the name of W. T. Jones, of Albany, as one competent to occupy the judgeship of the superior court of that county. Judge Jones is one of the most promising young attorneys in this state, and is well qualified for a judge as any one we know of in this state. He is a man of high standing, high as a jurist he has few superiors, and his service and experience upon the bench for long time has given him the confidence of the people. He has proven himself to be impartial in dealing justice and has taken more than his share of the law, and has been known to be manifested for any person. He deserves it, and we hope to see him elected.

From the Post-Appel.
The grand jury of Dougherty county, in session last week, met at the residence of their foreman, and after a session of several days, returned a verdict in favor of the defendant, Judge W. T. Jones, and recommended that he be appointed judge of the superior court of that county for the judgeship of the Albany circuit.

From the Coffee County Gazette.
Judge W. T. Jones has been endorsed for the judgeship of the Albany judicial circuit by the bar of the circuit, the members of the house and senators of the Georgia legislature, and by the people of that county for the judgeship of the Albany circuit.

From the North Star.
Governor of Georgia if North county elected the state, Mr. W. T. Jones, judge of the county court of Dougherty county, and a member of the Georgia legislature for the judgeship of the Albany circuit. He is an able lawyer, accomplished gentleman, and would adorn the bench of his circuit.

From the Georgia Farmer.
The Texas cotton crop for 1882 is expected to be from 1,500,000 to 1,600,000 bales.

THE CONSTITUTION,

Atlanta, Georgia.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 1, 1882.

The signal service bureau report indicates for south Atlantic states generally fair weather, clear to south winds, slight change in temperature and barometer.

After long but amicable litigation an important canonical question has been answered in our civil courts. It was raised by Bishop Beckwith with reference to his ex-officio rights as trustee of church property. In these rights as trustee the bishop as bishop is not sustained; thus settling an important question of church polity in the Episcopal church.

Georgia's Free Masons form an honorable body, as indeed they should, since they belong to an order more ancient than the golden fleece. The meeting of the grand lodge is therefore a notable event, and it brings together a large number of men who play no small part in moulding the character of the community and who are to be greeted with favor when ever they meet.

The tariff commission will, it is stated, recommend few changes this winter, preferring to indicate a postponement of a general revision until the meeting of the next congress in December, 1883. Of course while revision is under consideration the commission considers itself competent to deal with it, and it is evidently willing to attend the process to the end. The commissioners are "stagers," and no one will blame them much for liking ten dollars a day and all expenses paid.

DR. FELTON'S LETTER.

We print in another column a letter from Dr. Felton in reply to Dr. Baker's letters published a few days ago. It will be seen on reading Dr. Felton's reply that the controversy has been transformed into personalities material to his present position in politics at that district. The question that Dr. Felton should answer now, and it will take but words to do it, is with which party will vote on the organization of the new house representatives? This is of vital importance to the people of Georgia. They are not interested in personal matters that have nothing to do with the public. Dr. Baker and citizens of Bartow county during the past campaigns of Dr. Felton. We trust that Dr. Felton will state to the people of the district whether he will vote with the democrats or the republicans in the organization of the next house.

THE POLITICAL REFORMATION.

The keen-eyed philosophers claim to see in the political uprising, which shows itself in nearly every part of the country, a disposition to overthrow the party that has been in power nearly a quarter of a century, and also the bosses and barnacles of both parties that have made office-holding a business for a quarter of a century. The revolution is held in fact to be a demand for a new party and for new men. This was evident when the voters of Ohio disregarded the articles of Editor Newman, who was the democratic candidate for secretary of state, and voted regardless of what had been said and written during the stormy but rather musty days of the republic. The people are tired of rehearsals of the past, or at least of campaigns conducted on facts and prejudices relating to a now distant period, instead of the actual, vital present. The party of the future must be one that meets present wants, and not one of past deeds or associations. The sentimental period is over, and the country wants living issues and new men. The war and reconstruction party cannot well meet this demand of the public. It is endeavoring in some states to drive the corrupt politicians and bosses out, but it is plain that the effort will be at the cost of present success and probably of continued existence.

When the war and all its complications are dismissed from politics, a demand will go up for new men. The two reforms will go hand in hand. The old slogans and the old politicians should go down together; and if the revolt in the republican party is a movement of more than passing moment; if the people of the great northern states are in earnest—and a few days will show whether they are or not—the two will go together. If they declare that the war is over, and that administrative reform is now on deck, they will see that such old office-holders as John Sherman and the Camerons and scores of others shall give away to a new if not a better lot of men. If the old methods are to be abandoned, the men who have conducted them must go too. New men must be brought to the front. Despairing of accomplishing all this in the republican party very many thoughtful and intelligent voters are going over to the democratic party, hoping thereby to achieve what they could not in the republican party. If the Camerons should succeed in electing Beaver there will undoubtedly be a landslide to the democratic camp from the independent lines. Such is the case to-day in New York, New Hampshire, Kansas and Colorado. Such was the case in Ohio. True, the men who go over say that they will presently return when the camp they have left is purified and the old leaders drummed out, but the experience of all such movements is that they do not return as strong as they went.

The moral of all this is very plain. If the democrats are to regain control of the country, they must show that they are worthy of it. They must dismise ideas that are not applicable to the situation; they must adopt progressive if not aggressive policy, work up to the sentiment that they are little for old things, and much for present and future good. If we have any bosses or barnacles they should be politely put on the retired list, and new and vigorous men, full of faith in our institutions and destiny, placed in command. The old democratic party and the republican party both stand condemned, and if the new democratic party can meet popular sentiment in the matter of reform and progress, it will carry the country. The republican party is in the hands of bosses, and the belief prevails that the bosses are, and for a considerable time will be, stronger than the people. This is the opportunity of the democratic party, and the question now is, is it equal to it?

THE GOLD CERTIFICATES.

The applications for gold certificates far out-run the capacity of issue, and the department has concluded to issue the smaller denominations, namely, from $20 to $500, directly from the treasury, bearing the engraved signatures of the treasurer and register. Over ten millions worth of these certificates have been called for, and if the assistant treasurer at New York is required to sign them a delay of at least three months would follow. Mr. Acton will continue to sign the large certificates, but the smaller ones will be issued as legal tender notes—that is, as fast as the presses can print them. The demand for the small certificates comes from all parts of the country, but particularly from the west and the southwest. New Orleans wants $1,500,000 worth of certificates of $100 or less.

The issue of gold certificates will, beyond a doubt, work important changes in our monetary system. It is thought that they will very soon supplant the silver certificates; that the silver coinage will flow into the treasury through the custom houses, and largely remain there. This feature of the case is of course very gratifying to the single standard men of the eastern cities, and they will do all they can to usher the new certificates in and the old ones out.

The silver not needed for use in the trade of the country will go into the treasury vaults, and so will the gold, simply because certificates are much easier and safer to handle. The stock of the banks will be put in the most convenient form. The Financial Chronicle is confident that the stock of the associated banks of New York will take the same course, because the government certificates will prove more available and convenient than the certificates issued by the bank of America, which at present holds the bulk of the gold of New York. This depository is an expense to the banks, and when the government offers to keep the gold for nothing, it is plain that the government will sooner or later secure all the gold of the banks as well as the part that has been kept out of circulation in private hands. The hoarded portion will be considered safe in the vaults of the government.

The new certificates are by no means plenty, and yet the transactions at the New York custom house show that the use of gold will soon be discontinued, and that the fortunate vest pockets of the country will soon be filled with the light and compact certificates. We give below a statement showing the percentages of gold, notes and certificates, making up the customs payment at New York during October:

Week ending	Percentage.
	Total duties.	Gold.	U. S. notes.	Gold certificates.	Silver certificates.

This shows that the gold certificates have already risen from about 3 1/2 per cent to 60 per cent of all the payments, and the gold has declined from about 29 1/2 per cent to 8 1/2 per cent of the payments. So it is evident from results already obtained, as well as from the nature of the case, that as soon as the certificates become abundant enough, gold will be no longer used for paying revenues. And so it will be in every other branch of business. The yellow coins will soon become as unfamiliar in the country as they were before resumption took place. This fact is of course one of no consequence, as the people will have in its stead an acknowledgment by the government that the sum represented consists of gold in the treasury vaults that can be had on demand.

The act authorizing the issue of gold certificates permits the secretary of the treasury to put them out until his fund for the redemption of greenbacks falls to one hundred millions of dollars. If Secretary Folger fully and promptly executes the law, the country will feel a sensible relief, although there will be no actual increase of the circulation. The law will however put into active circulation much that has remained dormant and unavailable. The certificates will be used in cases where the coin would not have been, and the relief will come in such a way that even the capitalists who find both delight and profit in squeezing the country cannot complain. The certificates represent actual gold in the treasury, and no one can reasonably ask for anything better.

The recent Virginia duel between J. Ambler Smith and G. G. Wise will be long remembered. They met in a corner corner. Wise pitched a tumbler at Smith; Smith drew forth a red-mouthed revolver, and pointed it at the spot where Wise had last been seen. Smith was presently arrested, and Wise was rescued from behind a dry goods box without much difficulty.

It is a sort of nip and tuck race between the department of justice, at Washington, and the star route thieves, as to which shall be credited with the most knavery. The men in the department of justice and the star route thieves are all republicans to the backbone.

Mrs. Langley is so well pleased with America that we shall feel surprised and gratified if she doesn't take the country home in her pocket. Or are we mistaken in the supposition that ladies have pockets?

DEATH OF DR. WM. L. MITCHELL. A telegram from Athens last night announced the death of Colonel William L. Mitchell, LL. D., one of the oldest and most respected citizens of that city.

He was about seventy-five years of age, and until a few days ago was in his usual state of health. About a fortnight ago, he went to Washington city to attend the session of the Free Masons, and on his return contracted a cold which rapidly developed into pneumonia. He was seriously sick since last Saturday, and last night he breathed his last.

For many long years he was one of the foremost lawyers of the state, and probably no follower of that profession ever loved it more devotedly than he. Ever since the war he has been professor of law in the State university, and many of the more prominent lawyers of middle age and youth in the state bear the impress of the thorough and accurate training they received at his hands.

He was also a trustee of the university, and secretary and treasurer of the board. The university in particular, and education in general, had no warmer friend than he, and he allowed no opportunity to pass by which he could assist or promote the welfare and prosperity of an institution he so dearly loved.

Before the war he was superintendent of the Western and Atlantic railroad, and his acuteness of intellect and ready adaptability to the duties of whatever position he was called upon to fill, manifested themselves in his successful administration of this public property.

Dr. Mitchell was a man of strong convictions and fearless action. At an early age he connected himself with the Presbyterian church, and through his more than three score and ten years, he led a life of Christian virtue and excellence. Conscientious to the last degree, firm in his convictions of duty and unwavering in his discharge thereof, he elicited the admiration and respect of all who knew him. The law department of the university will be continued under the direction of Hon. Pope Barrow and George D. Thomas, who were elected his assistants about two years ago.

The grave of Emerson is kept constantly covered with flowers by the young girls of Concord. Hawthorne's, with a stone at head and foot bearing simply his name, is thickly overgrown with glossy myrtle. Thoreau's is undisturbed, save with a thick carpet of green grass.

It is not improbable that serious difficulties will arise to prevent Sir Garnet Wolseley's promotion to the rank of general. His services, in a military sense, have not been greater than those of Sir Frederick Roberts in Afghanistan, and it is known that the reason for that promotion was not given to the last named officer was to prevent his coming in competition with the other two.

THE Folger family seems to be prolific, and knows how to "catch on" to a government pay-roll. As far as heard from they are thus quartered: Charles J. Folger, secretary of the treasury, $30,000 per annum; Thomas C. Folger, clerk in the office of comptroller of the currency, $10,000; Joseph C. Folger, inspector of customs at New York, $1,400; Seth Folger, custom house inspector at San Francisco, $1,400; John Folger, collector of the Massachusetts coast, $1,400; C. C. Folger, storekeeper United States Internal revenue, South Carolina, $1,400; Robert M. Folger, United States commissioner, Ohio, $1,400; William M. Folger, lieutenant commander, United States navy.

It is no longer a matter of doubt that the opposition to Governor Colquhoun's candidacy is every day increasing. What with the stunning defeat in Ohio, the gloomy prospect for Folger in New York, the split in the party in Pennsylvania, the charges against the nominee for governor in New Hampshire, and a more uncertain condition of things in Massachusetts than has existed since 1874—the republican prospects in the year 1882 are not especially cheering, except on the theory that chastening worketh purity.

We have never had any conference with the other capitalists on the subject, and anybody can see the $2 that was expected to put into the syndicate by Vanderbilt at this office. That is, any person can see the $2 unless he has got a bill against us.

GEORGIA POLITICS.

ON THE SURFACE AND BELOW THE SURFACE.

What the Leading Politicians of the State are Doing Among the People—The Seventh and Ninth Congressional Districts—The State in General—Letters from Well Known Men.

The busiest of all men now in Atlanta are the candidates for judge and solicitor who are literally swarming around the hotels and every other place where legislators congregate. Some of the best material in the state is out in these cases and other men just struggling into fame are coming in to claim the attention of the arbiters of judicial honors. The elections begin next Monday and continue until all the vacancies are filled. It is probable that the first week of the legislative session will be taken up with the organization, arrangement of committees and election of judicial officers. The elections may run to the latter part of next week and then the session of the following week will come the choice of a senator for Mr. Hill's unexpired term and a senator for the full term. That is ten days of the legislative session, and it is probable that no material work on the regular business of the session. The fact that most of the members are new to their business may retard the progress still further and make a summer session a necessity.

But the ability of both branches is admitted, and the good sense of the assembly is a guarantee that the best possible under the circumstances will be done. THE SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED TUESDAY.
OCTOBER 31, 1882.James Jackson, Chief Justice; Martin J. Crawford and Alexander M. Spaw, Associate Justices.
Reported for the Constitution by J. H.
Lumpkin, Supreme Court Reporter.Franklin vs State. Murder, from Bibb. Criminal law. Evidence. Practice in superior court. Witness.Jackson, C. J.—1. On the trial of a defendant for murder, the throat of the deceased having been cut, the character of the wound being important to elucidate the issue, a photograph of the wound was admissible in evidence. 1 Bish. Crim. Proc. 1067; Wharton's Crim. Ev. 544 and citations.2. Where it was sought to connect a defendant with a homicide by reason of his possession of articles of apparel belonging to the deceased, a statement of the deceased made before his death, to the effect that the shoes and socks taken from the defendant's feet belonged to him was admissible, it having been made in the presence of defendant and not denied by him. Moye vs State, Feb. term, 1881.3. That shoes and socks were taken from the feet of a defendant after his arrest for that he was told to take them off by the police officers, and did so without any objection being made by him, does not render evidence identifying such property inadmissible, it being otherwise competent. 1 Gr. Ev. 54; Bish.
Crim. Proc. 210, 211.(a). This case differs from Day vs State, 63 Ga.
667.4. Such articles of apparel were admissible in evidence, and so also were boots, found at the scene of crime and corresponding in description to boots which had been worn by the defendant. 56 Ga. 114; Moon vs State, Feb.
term, 1882.(a). A knife shown to have been in defendant's possession a day or two after the throat of deceased was cut and then presenting traces of blood, was admissible in evidence.5. While, as a general rule, a case should not be re-opened at an instance of the state after the witnesses for the defendant have been discharged, at least without opportunity to send for them; still where no witnesses were examined for the defendant except on the subject of good character and for purposes of impeachment, and he did not show the presiding judge that the discharged witnesses would testify so as to affect the point to which the new witnesses were called, we cannot say that the judge abused his discretion in allowing the solicitor general to re-open the examination and introduce new testimony.6. Where the testimony introduced by a defendant related solely to his character and to the impeachment of witnesses for the state, and the judge called the attention of the jury
to such testimony, he thereby called attention to the proof of good character.(a). If a more specific charge on that point was deemed necessary by counsel for defendant, they should have called the attention of the court to such omission. 20 Ga.
253; 20 Ga. 380.7. Where statements of the person killed were made before his death, in the presence of defendant and not denied by him, to the effect that shoes and socks found on the latter belonged to him, and the court in admitting this evidence stated that he did not admit it for the purpose of identifying the property but as statements made in the presence of the prisoner, this was neither an expression of opinion by the judge, nor did it necessitate a charge on that subject.8. Circumstantial evidence proves certain facts which sustain by their consistency a hypothesis claimed. Code 33748.9. A ground of error which contains numerous items or points, but specifies no one as erroneous, is too general, and will not be considered unless all the items are erroneous.
60 Ga. 82.10. Though a witness be impeached as to general character, yet if corroborated in a material point, he may be believed; and if impeached by one witness as to character and sustained by another, it is for the jury to pass upon the credit due him. Code 33874-3875; Williams vs. State (prosecution term).11. A ground of a motion for new trial that the entire charge is vague, argumentative and does not present the law of the case, without specifying any errors, is too general.The verdict is supported by the evidence.Judgment affirmed. G. T. C. L. Bartlett; W. H. Felton, Jr., for plaintiff in error.J. L. Hardeman, solicitor general, for the state.Wilson vs. State. Murder, from Bibb. Criminal law. Misnomer. Minutes. Practice in superior court. Practice in Supreme Court.
Crawford, J.—1. Where a defendant was indicted under the name of Doc Wilson, a plea of misnomer to the effect that such was not his name nor had ever been, but that his name was and had always been Harrison L.
Wilson, was fatally defective in not alleging that the defendant had never been known or called by any other name. An indictment which describes the defendant by the name
by which he is generally or commonly known is sufficient. 65 Ga. 150; 1 Bish. Crim. Proc.
686; 60 Ga. 656.2. While the better and more general practice is to keep all the minutes together in one book, yet if the clerk keep the minutes of civil proceedings in one book and of criminal proceedings in another, the verity or legal effect of the latter is not thereby destroyed.(a). Minutes should be signed by the court, but are not invalid for want of a signature unless repudiated by the court.(b). In the present case the court did not repudiate the criminal minutes, but approved and signed them, and having done so, against the plea of misnomer, the court was bound to dictate at the time of the return of that under which the trial was had, we cannot say that he erred.3. The constitution of 1877 (art. 6, sec. 18.)
requires that the general assembly shall be composed of the most experienced, intelligent and upright men to serve as grand jurors, and intelligent and upright men to serve as traverse jurors.
Neither in the constitution, nor in the act passed in pursuance thereof, is there any discrimination made on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.(a). The selection of persons qualified to act as jurors is entrusted exclusively to a board of jury commissioners under the limitations of the act and the safeguards of an oath to discharge their duty impartially without regard to race, color, or previous condition of servitude and a punishment for violating the law. Thomas vs. State (September Term, 1881.)(b). Both white and black men were excluded from the lists because, in the opinion of the commissioners, they did not meet the requirements of the law; the commissioners denied being influenced by consideration of color, and on submission to the court, he having found against the plea in abatement, we will not reverse his finding.4. A challenge to the array of traverse jurors on substantially the same grounds was properly overruled. Especially so as it appeared that the names of thirteen negro men were in the traverse jury box, and that the names of others whom witnesses thought qualified to serve did not appear on the tax books from which the jury lists are made up.5. The challenge to the array of the second panel was substantially the same as to the first, except that there were two colored jurors on it, one of them being number forty-three on the list and the jury having been completed with number forty-three, though the defendant had nine peremptory challenges unused. The challenge was properly overruled.The first twelve jurors of the panel of eight were called, sworn, and put on their oath; the clerk then called two who were asked the statutory questions and being sworn. It was almost imme-diately discovered, and the solicitor-general proposed to recall the jurors and swear them;
defendant's counsel objected, but assigned no reason therefor; the call then proceeded:Held, that this was not error. The defendant having prevented the jurors from being sworn, and not having shown lapse of time, mixing of the jurors with the crowd or other reason, cannot demand a new trial.(a). I had the defendant had stricken one of the jurors not sworn makes no difference, where defendant both objected to his being recalled and sworn and did not use all of his strikes in securing a jury.7. Although a section of a charge considered separately might be erroneous, if considered in connection with its context, it is correct, it will not necessitate a new trial.8. The judge stated the issue as follows:
"He pleads not guilty; he says
he did kill Finley, but he did it in self defense, to save his own life, and that is the issue for you to try."Held, that while this was perhaps too decided a manner of stating the issue, it was not error, it being nowhere denied that defendant did the killing, even in his statement, and self defense being in fact the plea.9. On a trial for murder, when the killing has been proved to have been done by defendant, it will be presumed to be felonious unless the contrary appears either from the testimony offered by the state or the accused.10. Exceptions to long paragraphs of a charge, involving several points, without specifying any errors therein, are too general.(a). The section of the charge complained of in the 12th ground of the motion for new trial, was not error.11. A charge must be taken with its context, and not by isolated sentences culled here and there and put together. So taken the charge complained of in the 13th ground of the motion was not error.12. Charges not applicable to the evidence should not be given.(a). Where a difficulty resulting in a homicide was purely of a personal nature, and had no connection with the house where it occurred, there would have been no relatancy in charging 24332 of the code. Especially so where the scene of the difficulty was a public bar room in which the defendant was employed, and to which the public were invited.13. Where it is sought to justify a homicide on the ground of self defense or defense of habitation or property, 24330 of the code must be construed together with 24332 and 24333 according to the facts of the case, whether affecting person, property or family.
56 Ga. 184; 65 Id. 431.14. Where the general charge covers the law of a case substantially, if more specific instructions on any given point is desired, written instructions should be made.(a). A saloon where persons are invited to come and drink is a public place, and one who resorts to such a place for that purpose has equal rights there to that business with the vendor for the time being.15. The 17th and 18th grounds are covered by the principles already ruled.16. The 19th ground is disposed of by the 13th and note above.17. There was no error in the rulings set out in the 20th and 21st grounds of the motion for new trial. The charge was clear, fair and impartial.18. Where a pure question of fact was submitted to the court, and there was no request by counsel to be heard, it will not require a new trial that the court rendered its decision without hearing argument.19. Errors should be specified. Taking the entire instructions of the court on the subject of the credibility of witnesses together, they were not erroneous.20. A prisoner's statement is not under oath, nor is he subject to cross-examination without his consent; the jury may give to the statement such force and weight as they may see proper.21. While it is the duty of the court to charge on points made in the argument to the jury, growing out of the case and authorized by the testimony, yet its failure to do so will not require a new trial unless at the time of the charge counsel recall the points to his mind. 20 Ga. 325; 20 Ga. 380.22. The verdict was supported by the evidence.Judgment affirmed. G. T. C. L. Bartlett;
W. Dessau, S. Hall; J. S. Boynton for plaintiff in error.Clifford Anderson, attorney general; Jno. L.

See description in ten cent column and attend the sale. T. A. Frierson. It

We are in receipt of one of the most perfect directories we ever handled. It is the "Weatherbe Duplex," of Memphis, Tennessee. Mr. C. F. Weatherbe, of this city, is the sole proprietor now of the Southern City Directories, and has revolutionized the business by giving the names alphabetically, and then the streets and numbers, with the names of occupants. Atlanta's new directory is a plan, and the whole work will be an Atlanta affair. Messrs. Dunlop, Jackson & Co. being the printers. Success to the Duplex. Mr. Weatherbe is the Atlanta agent of General Abner Buford's Spirit, Turf, Road and Gun.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

Atlanta now has two passenger depots. The Belt road is being pushed to an early completion.

Trains for Savannah leave Atlanta at 4:15 a.m., 2:40 p.m., and 8 p.m.

The Georgia Pacific trains now run to Bremen, fifty-four miles from Atlanta.

Mr. R. D. Wade, superintendent of motive power of the Richmond and Danville railroad, is in the city.

The three passenger trains on the Central railroad make things lively for the towns between Atlanta and Savannah.

The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia road now stops their passenger trains at the old exposition depot, near the National hotel. Their ticket office and baggage rooms are in the hotel building.

Inauguration Ball.

Gentlemen citizens of Atlanta wishing to attend the inaugural ball to Governor Stephens will please leave their names with Mr. John Stephens, Captain J. A. Anderson or Mr. J. G. Zachry.

Burglaring a Residence.

The residence of Mr. J. J. Albert, near Ponce de Leon springs, was burglarized Monday night. Among other things which the family missed yesterday morning, were a double case silver watch, a chain and a pocket book. There is a good clue to the burglar.

Doorkeeper of the House.

Mr. J. S. Auglin, of Fulton county, is a candidate for doorkeeper of the house. He has had experience, and is well acquainted with the duties of the office. He is a worthy man, and will give entire satisfaction if elected. He has flattering prospects of election. He appeals to all his friends at home and abroad to help him.

Starting to Run to the Fire.

It was in Lowell, Mass. an alarm of fire was sounded, and the engine was rapidly driven out of the engine house. One of the horses took fright, pranced wildly about, and ran the engine against the brick door frame. Chief Engineer Hosmer was severely bruised, and two of his ribs were broken. For three weeks the physicians doctored him. Then a friend brought him some Perry Davis's Pain-Exposer. On being rubbed with this, he was well. Bestiment in the world. nov 1-dw1w

A Banana Rind.

A Mrs. Howard, who resides on Luckie street, stepped on a banana rind near Snook's furniture house, on Marietta street, and was thrown by it. In falling her ankle was so badly sprained that a carriage had to be obtained to carry her to her home.

Robbed of One Hundred and Fifty Dollars.

Mr. J. R. Gregg, of Fayetteville, who has been in Atlanta since Sunday, fell victim to a sneak thief during the latter part of Monday night, and lost one hundred and fifty dollars. The money consisted of eleven ten dollar bills, and two twenty dollar bills.

Salsbury Troubadours.

The above fun making organization, re-appear at DeGives Opera House, next week, in Howard's musical novelty entitled "Green Room Fun." Theatre habitués are always glad to see the talented and versatile artist Nellie McHenry, also the irresistible mirth provoking Nat Salsbury.

Society News.

News relating to engagements, parties, club meetings, weddings, personals etc. are, are respectfully solicited for Sunday's issue of The Constitution. All such matter must positively be handed in by Friday 12 o'clock m. Any matter sent in after that time will not appear.

Send, or hand all such news to society editor.

A Negro and a Stolen Mule.

The police force's attention was called yesterday to a telegram from the sheriff of Cobb county which was upon the bulletin board. The telegram announced the stealing of a mule from a Cobb county citizen night before last, and after giving a description of the mule and negro suspected of the theft offers a liberal reward for the arrest of one and the recovery of the other. From intelligence lodged at police headquarters last night it is thought that the mule and thief were both in Atlanta yesterday.

Sent to LaGrange.

The remains of Mr. L. L. Buck, General Gartrell's father-in-law, were forwarded to LaGrange yesterday for interment. Dr. Baird and Mrs. Baird and several friends and relations accompanied the body. Mr. Buck was one of the oldest citizens of Troup county, and possessed the respect and esteem of all all who knew him. Quite a number of Atlantians escorted the remains from General Gartrell's residence to the Union passenger depot, where the body was placed upon the West Point train.

Going in With a False Key.

Some time during Monday night a thief entered Mr. Treman's store, about four miles from town on the Peachtree creek road, with a false key and stole several pairs of shoes, some dress goods, a couple of coats, a pair of pants, some sugar, some coffee, and some cigars. The theft was discovered after Mr. Treman opened his store, yesterday morning, but up to a late hour last night no clue to the thief had been obtained.

Hurt by a Falling Brick.

Mandy Jones, an aged colored woman, received a bad scalp wound while passing by a new brick building on Decatur street, upon which hands were working yesterday evening. As she was walking by a brick dropped from the scaffold and struck her on the side of the head, inflicting an ugly wound which she held today at 10 o'clock. The sharp edge of the brick opened the scalp for about three inches.

A Merited Honor.

In this issue appears the announcement that Mr. F. W. Hart has associated with him in his prosperous enterprise for the sale of doors, sash, blinds, builders hardware and building material his second son, William H. Hart. This young gentleman has won for himself a very high stand among the business men of Atlanta, both by his courteous manners and devotion to duty. He possesses a fine address and a capacity for business that entitles him to the honor his father has seen fit to bestow upon him. With the sagacity and energy of Mr. F. W. Hart, backed by the two sons he has associated with him, the firm cannot fail to prosper.

Notice.

ATLANTA, Ga., October 31, 1882.—The criminal business of Fulton county court will be suspended on to-morrow, Wednesday evening, November 1st, and the civil business will be resumed promptly on Thursday morning next.

The following cases will stand for trial Thursday morning, to-wit: Reynolds vs. Cincinnati and Georgia railroad company, Davis vs. Adair et al, Mims vs. Cincinnati and Georgia railroad company, Freeman vs. Cincinnati and Georgia railroad company, Harrison Cole for use vs. Roy Johnson, propounder, etc., vs. Broad, Conley, Caveators. General bar meeting Thursday morning. By order of his honor,

GEORGE HILLIER, Judge, C. H. STONG, Clerk, nov 1

AFTER A FEW MONTHS

J. E. Thurman, an Escape from a Clarke County Sheriff, Tires of Wandering and Returns.

Governor Colquitt now has an interesting case up for his consideration. In June last, E. Thurman was convicted in Clarke superior court of stealing a horse from a negro. He was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary and pending the hearing of a motion for a new trial was before the court on a writ of habeas corpus. While the trial was in progress Thurman's brother rode upon a horse and tied him at the window of the court house. The horse was named Stamper and was noted in the locality for his speech. Thurman jumped out of the door and started for the horse. A deputy sheriff, who was outside, shot at him as he mounted the horse just in front of Thurman's leg and entered the animal's side. The animal, however, faithful to his rider, dashed away and went at almost breakneck speed for two miles when he gave out. The horse was abandoned and Thurman took it aloft to his father's in Jackson county, where he borrowed $250 from his sister and made his way to a train. He came through Atlanta and went on to Canada. He stayed there four months and became dissatisfied. He returned to Georgia, surrendered to the sheriff of Jackson county, and is now in Atlanta endeavoring to secure a pardon from Governor Colquitt. The governor has the matter under consideration.

SPECIAL NOTICE

FROM W. M. SCOTT,

THE GENTS' FURNISHER,

11 and 13 Whitehall.

While I had to announce to my customers that my orders sent to "Vannumaker" would be delayed—owing to all Philadelphia being on a (quaker) spree—Penn. centennial, I want it understood that orders taken next week will go through on regular time.

I would further announce that my stock of gentlemen's fine furnishing goods, is now full and complete. My store is crowded on both sides with everything pertaining to gentlemen and boys' wear.

EVERYWEAR—SILK, cashmere, merino, all wool, in white, searlet and fancy, medicated and Shaker flannels, ballgowns, cotton flannels, etc., etc., pantaloons cut drawers—perfect fit guaranteed.

GLOVES—A full line of kids, in embroidered and plain backs, in street, party, and opera shades, fleecy lined driving, buck, castor, cloth and Lisle, dress, walking and driving.

HALF HOSE—In silk, cotton, wool, and merino, plain, colored, clocked and embroidered.

IN THE COLLISION.

What Dr. Raines Saw When the Two Tennessee

"We stopped rather suddenly," said Doctor Raines, "when the two trains met on the track just this side of Rome yesterday. For my part, I went first foremost under the seat that was just in front of where I was sitting. The most singular thing that I witnessed was done just across the aisle from me. There were two men, sitting one directly behind the other, and in front of them was an uncoccupied seat. When the engines struck the man in front turned a complete somersault and lit in the vacant seat just exactly as he sat in the other seat. The other man performed exactly the same feat and lit in the seat lately occupied by his neighbor."

"When I had been taken out from under my seat I went out," continued Dr. Raines, "and the spectacle that met my gaze was most heartrending. I saw a man who had fallen off the engine and proceeded to get up. I found him to be the fireman. One of his legs was torn off, and one of his arms was hanging by a little strip of mashed and bruised flesh. I had my pocket case of instruments with me and cut the arm off. When I went up to where he was he was covered with steam, and asked those who reached him first for God's sake to take him out of the steam, that he was being scalded to death. He lived only about an hour and died. His death was most horrible. George Garvin, the engineer whose leg was broken, was carried to Rome. I brought him to Atlanta to-day, and he was taken to his home on Decatur street. He is doing very well."

THAT ARE TRULY WONDERFUL

JOHN RYAN

Ever on the alert with cash in hand to secure bargains whenever the opportunity presents itself, has this time made a grand strike, and caught a Shoe and Boot Manufacturer with too much stock and too little cash. He at once went into negotiations with him and now has the entire stock at a great deal less than the leather alone in the Shoes cost.

NOW LOOK OUT FOR BARGAINS

The time has come when you can get all you want. See the following and go to

RYAN'S IMMENSE EMPORIUM

OLD BOLIVAR.

The Largest and Heaviest Elephant Ever Imported

In 1825 the first elephant seen in America was placed on exhibition in New York city. Since then many have been imported, though for years one elephant was considered sufficient for a traveling caravan. His desire to advance and show more than others, however, induced proprietors of traveling shows to add others to the attractions until two, three, five, ten and fifteen elephants were exhibited. For the past Adams Forepaugh has eclipsed all rivals as a gatherer and exhibitor of these huge monarchs of the forest. He had twenty last year, and this year he exhibits twenty-two. The chief attraction of the herd is a mammoth known as "Old Bolivar" who is by far larger and heavier than any elephant ever before seen in America, and competent judges have declared it extremely doubtful if his equal exists anywhere on earth. He is in fact a "giant" elephant. His height is nearly twelve feet, and he weighs a little over five tons. Mr. Forepaugh's agent secured him at Point de Gales, in the island of Ceylon, paying $14,500 for him. He was shipped to Philadelphia at a cost of $1,200 more, making his total cost landed at Philadelphia $15,700. His age is not known with any degree of certainty, but it is estimated at about 100 years. When first placed among the Forepaugh elephants he gave great trouble on account of his desire to battle with the other large elephants, but he has become very peaceable and no trouble is now experienced with him. His great pet is the baby elephant, Topsey, whom he will not allow to be out of sight. Of all the twenty-two elephants Mr. Forepaugh now exhibits, he is by far the most interesting. He will be here November 11th.

Armstrong Brothers' Minstrels.

The above organization will occupy DeGives' opera house Thursday night, November 2. The Columbus Enquirer says: "Armstrong Brothers' minstrels played to a packed house last evening. This company is composed of some of the best negro dancers we have ever seen. Billy Armstrong, in his aged specialties, was immense, and drew rounds of applause. The other members were equally as good. Many features were entirely new, and as a whole one of the best troupes on the road. We can safely commend them to the amusement public generally."

Money Bags.

The above comedy company will be produced at DeGives' opera house Friday and Saturday nights, November 3rd and 4th, with a matinee Saturday afternoon. In speaking of it the Brooklyn Eagle, 10th says: "The welcome extended to the comedy was only surpassed by the fervor of the greeting bestowed upon Messrs. Shannon and Lamb, who were fairly overwhelmed by the warmth and heartiness of the long drawn applause which broke spontaneously from all parts of the house upon their appearance before the footlights. 'Money Bags' is not only a pure toned and highly amusing comedy, but it conveys a wholesome lesson couched in witty dialogue and sharp satire, and emphasized by judicious and convincing situations. The audience laughed itself hoarse; and after enjoying three hours of unadulterated honest fun set the seal of popular approval upon the play by an enthusiastic recall of Messrs. Shannon and Lamb before the curtain at its termination."

Fast, brilliant and fashionable are the Diamond Dye colors. One package colors one to four pounds of goods. Ten cents for any color.

FACTS VS. DELUSIONS.

IN THE TIME OF PROSPERITY—That is the time to insure your life. Death may come in such a time as well as in any other, and a time of prosperity is not a time when men have enough to support their families if they should die, but a time when their families share with a large income, because they are alive to earn a large income. But death would change all this. The most prosperous times are not times of plenty to those who have no share in the golden harvest.

The time of prosperity is the time when men ought to insure their lives, because, in such times they can the more easily afford the expense. In times of business depression men often say truthfully, "It takes all I can earn to support my family for the present, and I cannot insure without pinching while pinching hurt." But in times of prosperity there is no such excuse. Then a man can insure if he will.

A time of prosperity is the time for a man to insure his life, because, if he does not put money into life insurance, the chances are that he will put it into something else of less value. The shrewdest men make mistakes in investing money, and it behooves every one to make sure of things useful before indulging in things superfluous. There is scarcely a business interest in the country on a footing so safe, or one that so fully guarantees returns so desirable, as life insurance. Money put into it is saved—and probably for a time of need.

WHAT BETTER INVESTMENT can a man ask than one which returns him his money in any event, and if he doesn't live long enough to earn money for his family, one that increases that he has put in in exact proportion to time that death robs them of his presence and labor, to the extent of sometimes paying fifty for one. That is a fair statement of what Life Insurance does for the
